- All students can identify personal strengths and weaknesses, identify careers that match their interests, passions, and skills, identify learning styles that support their achievement, and identify short-term and long-term goals.
- All students leave middle school inspired to actively pursue learning opportunities and experiences in-and-out of the classroom to enhance their passion for learning.
- All students are involved in positive connections and mentorship relationships with adults, are able to recognize and seek help when needed, and are positive role models and mentors for others.
- All students use their skills as life-long learners to enhance society as local and global citizens
